

Small Island Tourism

Economic Value and Trends in the NL Context

In many small-island regions hit hard by demographic change and shifts in industry, tourism is seen as a potential saving grace. What are the actual economic impacts of these tourism industries? How do they affect life in their immediate communities and regions? What can different jurisdictions learn from each other? Join us as we explore these questions, with help from a group of interesting panelists

Monday, November 26, 2018

1:00-2:30 p.m.

The Stone Jug, Carbonear

This free public forum is presented as part of the RETI Symposium and will include a Q&A with the audience, including visiting guests representing the UK, Japan, Spain, and France.